As the World's Fair is an exhibition of the efforts and achievements of mankind, so is this yearbook a representation of our trials and errors through our six years at West York. We share with you our poignant memories as we lived them. Likewise we recognize all those who endeavored to make West York a smooth running institution of learning. We give credit by picturing the students who not only strived for knowledge, but also those who supplemented their school lives through extra-curricular activities. Our yearbook serves as a link connecting our past high school experiences with our future expectations.

Come with us through the following pages as we visit the Fair and also review our last and best year of athletics, activities, and scholastic achievements.

IN MEMORIAM

To the shock of faculty and students alike, it was announced on December 22, 1964 that Mr. Palmer E. Poff had died.

Mr. Poff, who for the last several years had served as administrative assistant in the West York School district, began his teaching career at West York in 1929. He was the high school principal for twelve years and in 1957 was designated curriculum coordinator for the area school system. Because of his enthusiasm for sports, he was instrumental in establishing the Principal's Trophy, an annual award for the winner of the Red Lion-West York football game.

Mr. Poff received his Bachelor's degree from Lebanon Valley College and his Master's degree from Penn State University. He also attended the University of Pennsylvania and was a member of alumni clubs of both Penn State and Lebanon Valley. He was a member of the Pennsylvania State Education Association and the National Education Association.

Besides his school activities, Mr. Poff was an active Boy Scout leader and a member of the West York Exchange Club, Reliance and Lincolnway Fire Companies and the Schoolmen's Club.

The West York School District owes much to Mr. Poff for his ceaseless efforts and numerous contributions to the education of youth.

MARQUART POWELL DOTY

DEDICATION

We appreciatively and proudly dedicate the 1965 issue of the LA MEMORIA to Marquart Powell Doty. This devoted individual has given her all for the benefit of our class. She has been the hard-working progressive advisor of this class for its three most important years—10, 11, 12.

Without her sense of dynamic organization, "Bayou Flute", our 10th grade class play, would not have been such a grand success. Her drive throughout the trials of "A Mid Summer Night's Dream" and "Bell, Book and Candle" helped us along the hard road to success. In addition to her aid in the class plays, Mrs. Doty gave our class the incentive to co-operate in attaining our goals.

As a tremendous instructor she incorporates the teaching of French with the intention of helping all students gain a liberal education. Mrs. Doty tries to inspire everyone to higher levels and urges each individual to work to his utmost capabilities.

To say thank you is hardly enough; but as a small measure of our gratitude we would heartily invite Mrs. M. P. Doty to become an official member of our class. MERCI BEAUCOUP!

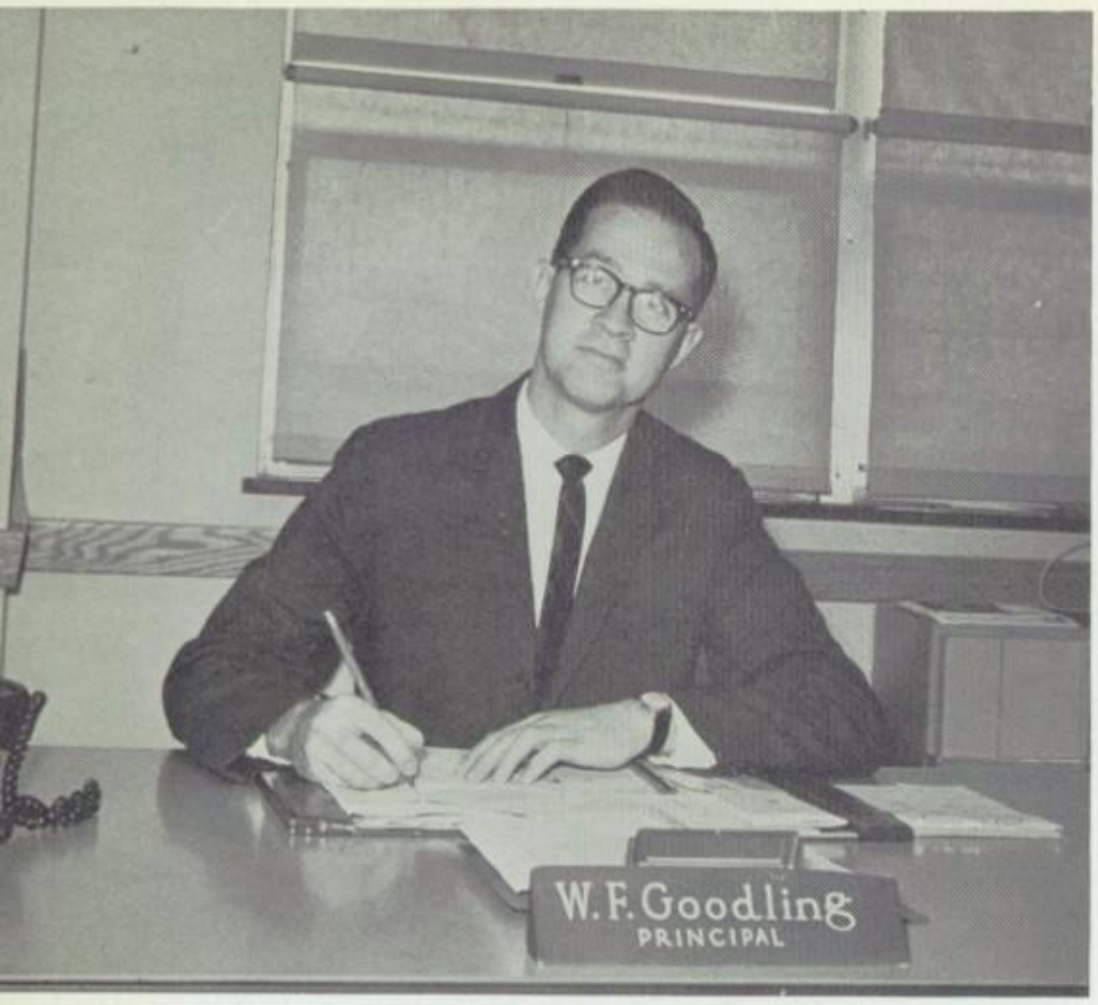
Yours Is The Future

Seniors, yours is the world of tomorrow; its direction is in your hands. Help make it a better place in which to live!

The stability of the world rests on the moral and spiritual strength of its people.

Prepare yourself today to make an important contribution tomorrow.

Wilson G. Gallagher
Supervising Principal
West York Area School District



I am sure that your academic preparedness to face the future is commensurate with the efforts you put forth while in school. I can only hope that you are prepared to face the anti-God elements which will surround you in college, and on the job, as well as to be able to think for yourself before accepting philosophies and economic theories of others. Think before you accept or act, and a richer and fuller life will be yours.

A Language Which Needs No Translation

SEATED: Mrs. Czyzewicz, Mrs. Ralphs, Miss Hillegass. STANDING: Mr. Molin, Mr. Wyand.

Psychologists know that each of us is born with an inside hunger for beauty and knowledge. Fine Arts help us to see, hear, and enjoy our environment which otherwise we might not recognize. Students working in a variety of mediums in art and music are encouraged to develop a personal approach and a keen insight into the world about them, to be selective in their tastes, to observe and analyze problems, and to live more happily. Music, the care and practice of sounds, and art, the expression of man's inner eye, expose young people to varied approaches in hope of developing the natural creativity of the individual.

The library, containing thousands of volumes of fact, fiction, and fantasy, is a vital part of the lives of both pupils and teachers. Rendering an invaluable service to school and community, our library will continue to offer aid in the search for knowledge.

The fine arts department assists students in their search for beauty and knowledge to gain more enjoyment from life.

Practical Skills . . . For Future Responsibility

SEATED: Mr. Prowell, Mrs. Wakeland, Mr. Baskwell.
STANDING: Mr. Walker, Mr. Bupp, Mr. Schucht.

The object of the Business Education Department is to prepare the students to live in a highly competitive world. To impart enough information so that pupils can secure positions as executives and secretaries is the ultimate aim. This particular course of study begins in ninth grade where the foundations of business-like work habits such as speed, accuracy, thoroughness, punctuality, system, cooperation and dependability are laid. Pupils are taught to be more competent buyers and users of goods. Acquiring a business-like knowledge of rights and obligations in common everyday living in ethics is considered. Several classes are operated as an office, not a classroom. Students are taught to work, act and accept responsibility as though they were paid employees in an office. They are given training in all jobs a clerical worker may perform and are taught systematic methods of recording figures and information so that financial reports can be classified. When West York business students graduate, they are adequately equipped to meet the challenges of the world.

The function of the English department at West York is to help the pupil to express himself clearly and correctly by mastering the rudiments and fundamentals of his own language. In English class, the individual becomes acquainted with the lives, customs, and thoughts of the people in his environment and in times past. To cause enjoyment and delight, to enrich personality, and to awaken a language consciousness are the aims of the English teacher. Through writing, speaking, reading, and listening, the student's creative ability and individuality are developed. In general, the English department hopes to stimulate the emotional and imaginative phases of life so that the pupil may become a well-adjusted citizen.

The foreign languages curriculum at West York consists of sequential courses in Spanish and French. Interest is fostered in Spanish and French-speaking countries through the study of their history, geography, and general culture. Their influence on the past history and present culture of our own country is also brought to the attention of the student. The pupils are taught to speak the language used in daily living as well as to develop speed and fluency in translating sections in the text. Folk songs, art, and literature are several of the various topics evaluated by the students during the year in correlation with their study of grammar and vocabulary. The most important aim of the foreign language curriculum is to link the various languages, customs and ideas so that the pupils may make comparisons which will help them to better understand the foreign countries and America.

Guidance Leads Men to Greater Heights

Mr. Rebert, Miss Benfer, Mr. Stewart

In the formulative years at West York, the school's main responsibility to the student is to try to discover his abilities, interests, and needs, and to reveal to him the educational possibilities for self-development. The program of studies must be organized upon the philosophy that each generation must learn to solve problems that were not dreamed of by previous generations. Counselors carefully plan courses of study in terms of educational functions to be achieved with emphasis upon future vocational possibilities. Subjects attempt to instill a system of sound basic values such as honesty, integrity, respect, co-operation, responsibility and patriotism. Emphasis is also placed on recognizing the cultural heritage, the democratic way of living, and the rapid changes that are taking place in our economic, political, scientific, and social life. Above all, the guidance department strives to prepare each student for the changing society which he will soon enter as an adult.

Home Economics

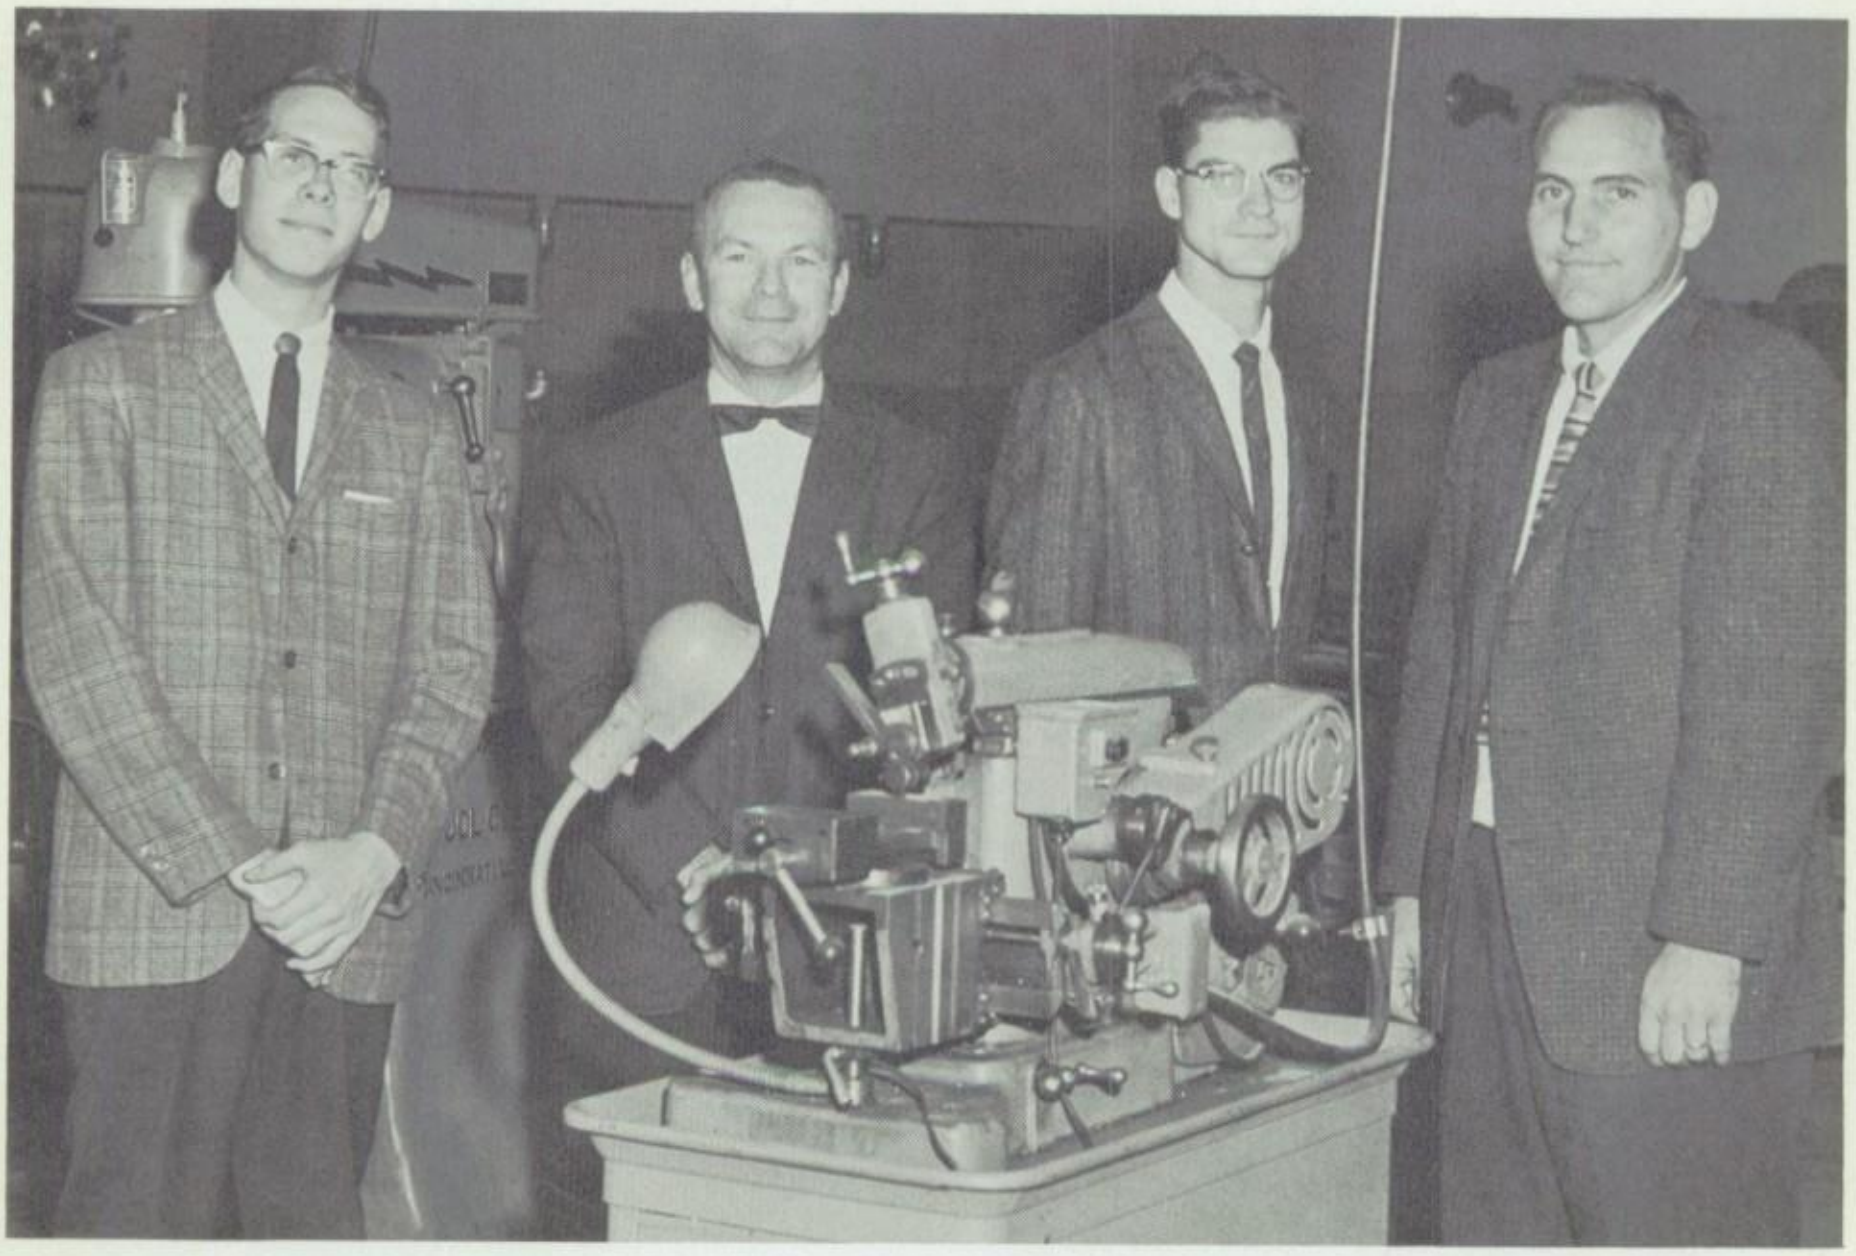
Education for effective home and family living is too important to be left to chance. Homemaking has been developed out of an interest in personal, family, and community well-being.

General objectives of the homemaking course include activities which are an integral part of family life. The course offers recognition of the interests and needs of the individual as a continuing process in the attainment of maturity. Experiences in skills and development of personality traits are also offered, as well as an overall perspective in the orientation of marriage and home management.

Teaching materials consist of a list of knowledgeable homemaking books written by expert homemaking educators. They recognize that our pupils must acquire skills and philosophies which will enable them to cope with the economic, moral, and social problems of the day. To achieve these results, we have improved our techniques and formulated our principles to guide and direct the future citizens of our democracy.

A Craftsman Works With His Hands and Heart



Mr. Kopala, Mr. Douglas, Mr. Smeltz, Mr. Bowers

Knowledge is related to all the learning experiences of youth, and is not limited to textbooks, as is evident in the industrial arts curriculum. Dexterity in the shop with metals, wood, plastics, and electricity, and in mechanical and architectural drawing as well as development of skills in auto mechanics is impressed upon the student.

The course is designed to explore the pupils' interests, inclinations, and abilities in occupational pursuit to instill general rules of safety and safe work habits regarding machinery, instruments, and materials.

Through these objectives students who will not go to college will learn skills which will help them become tomorrow's substantial citizens.

The Basis for Logical Thinking

SEATED: Miss Kristick, Mrs. Stitt. STANDING: Mr. Eyster, Mr. Mathias, Mr. Rinehart, Mr. Sechrist, Mr. Golgan, Mr. Snyder.

The mathematics department of West York strives to develop an appreciation of the important role that mathematics plays in changing man's life in our modern world. Based upon the principles which the student has mastered in the elementary grades, new concepts and skills are added to increase understanding and attain proficiency in the field. General math endeavors to review fundamental processes and instill curiosity for further discovery. Continuing into the study of algebra, the student is introduced to new ideas which will help to develop logical thinking in problem solving. The geometry course is designed to emphasize the significant role geometry plays in the world as applied to other fields. Advanced courses give the college bound student a wider range of analysis and computation. General mathematics in senior high prepares students for a demanding role in the business world. The final goal is to gain an awareness of the importance and function of mathematics in the development of societies.

Health and Safety are Essential Today

Miss Ilgenfritz, Mr. Verdier, Mrs. Arnold, Miss Cottman, Mrs. Altland, Mr. Ebersole, Mr. Warner.

Our programs of health, physical education, and safety education are planned to provide opportunities for the pupil to develop knowledge, skills, habits, attitudes, and ideals which are necessary for a sound mind and a sound body.

The program of health offers to the students general information about the body and how it functions.

Safety education offers a comprehensive course on safety education, motor vehicle transportation and the problems of today's drivers.

Physical fitness is a major problem the world faces. Our late President Kennedy has given us a beginning to solve the problem. The physical education program helps to develop a working understanding of good health habits; to find emotional satisfaction in daily relationships in school, at home, and in the community.

Emphasis is placed on development of agility, strength, skill, and endurance which are so vital in creating the sound body which houses the sound mind.

SOCIAL STUDIES

In the present age of jets, hydrogen bombs, and satellites, people must realize the importance of an intelligent understanding of all the peoples in the world. This is the objective of the social studies course.

The purpose of the history courses is to show man's relationship to the past and his present status in civilization. West York offers several history courses. Among these are United States History and Pennsylvania History.

The course in Problems of Democracy should help students appreciate the sacrifices that have been made by their forefathers in the remote past and the more recent past that they might live in a land free from "fear" and "want", and that they may enjoy the democratic society that is ours.

Academic achievement is important, but social growth and attitudes are a necessary part of the social studies course, especially in Problems of Democracy. The achievement of citizenship and social competence are a continuing process which the social studies courses endeavor to develop.

Science, one of the oldest fields of study and yet always new, is more and more becoming an integral part of our everyday lives. The science curriculum at West York strives to present to the student a well-rounded education in the main fields of study. Teachers of general science, biology, chemistry, physical science, and physics endeavor to give the pupil basic experiences with tools of science, to stimulate interest in discovery, and to promote intelligent observation and discussion of current scientific findings. Their aims are to give pupils a basic understanding of living things and their interdependence, to interpret basic theories and laws of science, to encourage logical thinking and develop an appreciation of the spirit of scientific inquiry; and, finally, to create an insatiable curiosity and thirst for knowledge concerning the unknown.

Vital Parts of Our School

Studying under Mr. Bailey, Mrs. Abbotts will graduate from Millersville State College in January. She plans to continue teaching and eventually get her master's degree. Mrs. Abbotts found the students and faculty very friendly and expresses the hope to be associated with students who are as cooperative and faculty members who are as friendly as those she has met at West York.

As a student at Millersville State College, Mrs. Partusio studied the romance languages, French and Spanish; Spanish being her favorite. Having studied under Mr. Jacobs, our Spanish teacher, Mrs. Partusio ends her years of school in January when she will graduate. As student teacher at West York, she has found West York students eager to learn and ready to cooperate.

Class Song—Tune: "You'll Never Walk Alone"

As we leave dear West York
With our heads held high,
We'll think of those wonderful years;
Now and then we can glance
Through the curtain of time,
And recall all the fond memories.
Walk on, 65,
Keep your spirit alive,
And we'll never walk alone;
Walk on, Walk on,
Leave nothing behind,
No, we'll never walk alone,
we'll never walk alone.

You have shown us the way
For our lives ahead;
And taught us that knowledge is truth;
You have planted the seed
For the dreams we'll dream,
Now it's all up to us to proceed.
Walk on, 65,
Keep your spirit alive,
And we'll never walk alone.
Walk on, Walk on,
Leave nothing behind,
No, we'll never walk alone.
we'll never walk alone.

Sherri Wisner

CLASS POEM

It seems like only yesterday
The year was '59,
And we as seventh graders tried
To keep ourselves in line.

And then as each new year progressed
We learned just what was meant,
By that old saying "the tree grows
Just as the twig is bent."

You offered education and
A chance to get ahead,
You chose the right direction in
The way which we were led.

We have no way to thank you now,
But in our future years,
We'll put to use the things we learned
At West York High, so dear.

And as we leave our dear old school,
We'll hold our heads up high,
And think of all the memories
Which we know will not die.

And even though we say goodbye,
You know we'll ne'er forget
That happy day in '59,
The day when we first met.

OUR THANKS

The Senior Class wishes to extend its heartiest appreciation to the World's Fair Corporation for granting us permission to use the Unisphere for our yearbook symbol.

To Mr. Wise, our industrious advisor, we extend heartfelt thanks for advising and guiding the staff. Without him our La Memoria would have been an impossibility.

To Mr. Tunney, our congenial photographer, our thanks for the prompt, yet efficient, service.

Many thanks also to Yearbook House for publishing our La Memoria "65".

The Groves

Time goes so fast and now I must say "Selamat Tinggal" to my friends, teachers of West York High School, my American family and the people that I have known in America.

I enjoyed my experiences during this year in West York and I do like the American's customs. I will never forget the fun that I shared with you especially with the Class of '65. The traits that I'll always remember about Americans are their cheerfulness and kindness. I hope that I can make my experiences in America useful to Indonesia.

I can never thank enough the kids, the teachers, the people, especially my wonderful family The Groves. Indonesia is very far from America, but I hope you can come to visit me someday. Although we don't have snow in Indonesia, I'm sure you will enjoy the beautiful places that we have.

SAJA MENGHARAP SEMOGA PERSAHABATAN KITA AMERICANS DAN INDONESIA AKANBERDJALAN BAIK DAN KEKAL SEBAGAI PERSATUAN JANG ABADI.

Elfi's youngest brother and sister

Elfi

Who can express the delight that West Yorkers, especially the Class of "65", experienced in knowing Elfi! Her smile and cheerful attitude will never be forgotten. Her excitement at seeing her first snow, her pleasure at sitting on Santa's lap, her astonishment at finding "all Americans so nice" will always be remembered by those who know her.

As you leave West York, Elfi, be assured that your spirit will remain with us always.

Sad, yet thankful for the opportunity of knowing you, we say, "Good-bye; we will never forget you."

Class History

Transport your mind back to September of 1959. In the huge labyrinthe of halls and classrooms, we timid seventh graders were dwarfed by tons of flesh belonging to our superiors. Many things proved to be different in this new environment. Book covers were distributed; schedules were received; recess was replaced by the passing of classes. Mr. Zinn's handwriting put many people in the "hospital". Two new subjects presented to us in seventh grade were woodworking for the boys and home economics for the girls. We also took our first field trip to Lancaster and visited President Buchanan's home, Wheatland.

Liberation from our bonds of total oppression came when we began eighth grade. Many of us could be heard saying, "Now, at last I can tread upon a lesser person than myself." Our American history course consisted mainly of tales of personal acts of heroism during World War II. We invaded the Gettysburg Battlefield and learned which horses have one foot elevated and which have two. Another new subject to which we were introduced was reading. Our reading abilities were found to be between the second and seventh grades. So how did we get this far?

With ninth grade came algebra, Huck Finn, a field trip to the State Capitol, and a lot of excitement regarding our future. This was the year we chose our course for the next three years. Remember the problem of deciding upon an academic, business, shop, general business, or generally general career?

In tenth grade we obtained two hard working advisors in Mrs. Doty and Mr. Harvey Jacobs. With their direction and the help of Mr. Rodney Swartz, we presented Bayou Flute, the best musical ever to be performed on the West York stage. Delightful songs were sung by the Bayou Bougre Brigade, Craig (Cap'n Dew) Horton, Gail (Maman Fouchard) Kelly, Sherry (Lilo) Wisner, George (David) Anderson, and many other fine performers. Here is a recipe for pralines which was the favorite dish of people on the bayou:

Into an ordinary aluminum pot pour a cup of sirup (such as Brer Rabbit or similar brand) and three cups of Domino granulated white sugar. A little salt is added. When the sirup and sugar comes to a boil stir in two cups of hulled pecan kernels—halves and broken pieces mixed. Stir constantly until the mixture thickens. Prepare beforehand long strips of waxed paper and with a large spoon drop the mixture on it in plats or cakes about the size of a small saucer. As they cool and harden, lift up the paper and turn them upside down.

Money-making schemes sponsored by our class included two dances and a cashew nut sale. Our fall dance featured the Lightning Decades and our spring dance, the Invictas. The cashew nut sale in December was hard work but very successful.

This year we were formally introduced to the Bard by his ally, Mrs. Lentz. One of her philosophies must have been that actions speak louder than words, because, during our study of "Julius Caesar", much of our time was spent acting out the various scenes in this Shakespearean play. If we did not receive any memory work, a "Thank you, Mrs. Lentz" was demanded of us.

Our field trip took us to the Hershey chocolate factory and the Harrisburg State Hospital. Surprisingly enough everyone returned safely from Harrisburg.

The nauseating odor of formaldehyde greeted us in biology lab under the direction of Mrs. Golgan. If you check your right or left index finger, you can still probably find a small scar produced by Mrs. Golgan during our study of blood smears. Would somebody please tell her the difference between a prick and a stab?

Parlez-vous francais? Oui, most of us learned a little French this year. Once we learned the difference between French and Spanish, the French went a little smoother.

This was the year Burton Snyder was class president, Mr. Altland was school principal, and the venerable Mrs. Lentz and nurse Amy Shambaugh retired. It was also the year of the formation of the Amelius Paulus Literary Society for boys under the direction of Mrs. Doty.

Each of us begged, borrowed, or stole between twenty and thirty dollars and purchased a class ring which now is probably not in our possession anyway. We certainly were proud of them after their long-awaited arrival.

Sports and music demanded a more intense sense of dedication in tenth grade as was witnessed by those brave souls who dared to go to band camp at Camp Nawakwa or football camp at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation. At football camp it is said the Bulldogs ran over ten miles a day. Such devotion to our school was truly admirable.

The Line Up

Friends of the Bard

With a sigh of relief from most of us, tenth grade became history and eleventh grade, the present. Innovations this year included Senior National Honor Society inductions, geometry, birthday parties in French class, and Kiddie Day with Miss Campbell.

A tragedy also occurred this year. Our class play, Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream, directed by Mr. Rodney Swartz, was postponed to a Tuesday night due to excessive snow. This delay resulted in a smaller but more interested audience.

A depressing situation matured in that West York had more students than it was meant to serve. As a result our American history classes were conducted in the front of the auditorium while a study hall was maintained in the back.

Mr. Beckmyer introduced us to a new type of guessing game. It was called "unknowns". What he did was to give us something chemical and tell us to guess what it was. Somehow many of us passed chemistry.

With the supervision of Mr. Donley and Mrs. Doty, our class advisors, and Tom DeLong, class president, we sold West York beanies. This campaign did draw in some money for our slim treasury.

During our junior year, we met the bravest man in the entire school, Mr. Ebersole, our driving instructor. What we couldn't do behind the steering wheel, he did, fortunately. Remember making three-point turns and changing tires?

The big social event of the year was the Junior-Senior Prom at the Red Lion Country Club. Although there were not so many couples attending as expected, the theme "Sea Mist" provided an exciting evening.

Finally our junior year at West York drew to a close and we prepared for our senior year, the last and best of this era of our lives. Almost all of us seniors shared one-half a locker with a friend, ate in one-half of an hour, went to school one-half of a day, did one-half of our homework, and passed one-half of our tests. We took college boards and applied to a college, university or school. If not, then a job or the service became our future lot.

Interesting things this year included a fun night, trig and motley math, grenouille hunting and mountain lions in biology, an attempted mass murder by cyanide in chemistry, Karate (Betty Crocker) Clark, Spandi and Woody (so neat!) and that Conservative Republican (what's his name) in the auditorium.

Homecoming weekend began with a pep parade, the football game in which we tied Southwestern, and finally the dance. Gail Cunningham was our lovely queen with six members in her court, including honorary member, Elfi Sitompul.

Again this year Mr. Rodney Swartz directed our play, Bell, Book and Candle, a delightful story of twentieth century witches. The small but experienced cast included Sherry Wisner and Gail Kelly, witches; Terry Wolf, an alcoholic warlock; Paul Smith, an author with a problem, and James Enterline, a lover.

Perhaps one of the most interesting persons in our class was Elfi, our guest from Indonesia. One of her observations was that we laughed loudly. The only explanation must be that we, as seniors, were intoxicated with joy and frivolity. Some members of our class were just intoxicated.

Here ends the history of our class. It is with deep emotion that we depart from a way of life that will never be ours again. Hopefully we will be able to use these memories as a source of pleasure and a guideline to success and happiness in the future.

A Review of the Events of the Year

On July sixteenth, Barry Goldwater was nominated by the Republicans as their candidate for President. Mr. Scranton tried to stop Goldwater, but instead of gaining delegates he lost them. Mr. Goldwater's success was due to his understanding of the way party machinery works and his forceful four year drive for the nomination. Nelson Rockefeller, who was in the race early, seemed to be unacceptable from the start because of his divorce and remarriage.

Goldwater's policies were to rebuild the United States' once grand alliances, to recognize that Communism is the United States' worst enemy, and to confront Communism with a firm policy of resistance. Goldwater ranted about the Tennessee Valley Authority, Social Security, the Supreme Court, and conventional nuclear weapons.

The Republicans had some things in their favor. In the Southern cities there was strong opposition to the effort of the Federal government to force integration of races in schools and other public places. A losing war in South Vietnam with the Americans on the defensive losing lines and gaining nothing made some people oppose the Johnson legislation. Also the arrest and resignation of Walter Jenkins led some people to question the honesty and morals of the then present administration.

Johnson's policies were to strengthen the United Nations, to continue to find areas of common interest with the Soviet Union, to slow the arms race, to lessen tensions and the dangers of war, to bring about hospital care for the aged under the Social Security System, to provide more federal aid to education, to assist the Appalachian region and big river developments, and to provide more federal aid for the problems of big cities.

Johnson, who promised to save the nation from international chaos, defeated Goldwater who attacked the Tennessee Valley Authority in that same region and who attacked the Social Security System in front of the old people in favor of that system. One reason for the Republican loss was the fact that a Democrat was in office at the time of the election and it has been proven that it is impossible to unseat a President in office in the time of prosperity. The Republican Party was also sharply divided in its support of its own presidential candidate.

Johnson won by sixteen million votes. In this election sixty-nine and one-tenth million Americans voted, sixty-one and two-tenth per cent of the popular vote went to Johnson, and six million Negroes voted. The President won ninety per cent of the nation's five hundred and thirty-eight Electoral College votes.

The United States witnessed many firsts in the presidential election some of which were that Georgia went Republican, Vermont went Democratic, and the District of Columbia voted for the first time.

The nation's thirty-sixth President, Lyndon Baines Johnson and his running mate Hubert Humphrey were inaugurated on January twentieth, nineteen hundred and sixty-five. Johnson who was President-by-accident had suddenly realized he was now President-by-choice.

Sixty-six year old Margaret Chase Smith was the first woman ever to be an active entry in the race to win a major party's presidential nomination. She was a Republican moderate who broke the ice for future politicians.

Walter Jenkins, the closest aid and confident of President Johnson, was arrested on a morals charge on October seventh, nineteen hundred and sixty-four. The charge consisted of disorderly or indecent gestures. The worst thing about the incident was that it took place three weeks before the November third election. Surprisingly enough this incident didn't hamper Johnson's landslide victory.

The Conservative Government in England holding power for 13 years was overturned at last by the Labor Party. The voters forced a choice, for their Prime Minister between two very dissimilar politicians representing the Conservatives and Laborites. Similar to the United States election, many Britans showed no enthusiasm for either candidate. Sir Alec Douglas Homes, conservative, took clearcut stands on issues and was forthright but lacked skills to handle British problems. Harold Wilson, Laborite, showed a lack of principle but had a good reputation as organizer and political brain. As the campaign wound up, the voter had to choose for either a clever economist, who they weren't sure could grapple with Britain's problems. On October fifteenth, nineteen hundred and sixty-four, the majority vote went for the Laborite party's Harold Wilson.

To the shock and amazement of the whole world on October thirteenth, nineteen hundred and sixty-four, Nikita Khrushchev was summoned to Moscow to meet with the Presidium. The members of the Presidium criticised his agricultural program, space program, and affairs with Red China, Cuba and the United States of America. The Soviet Economy is far behind the western world. This was a big factor in Khrushchev's dismissal. Russian people, during the 20th century, have 19th century living standards, Russian industry and agriculture are lacking, modern conveniences are scarce, and Russia's prestige has fallen to a new low.

Some of Khrushchev's best friends, such as Mikoyan, played leading roles in Khrushchev's ousting. The new leaders chosen by the Presidium were First Secretary Leonid Breshnev, age 68, and Premier Aleksee Kosygin, age 60. Deprived of all glory, Khrushchev left Moscow quietly.

Russia is now run by a committee instead of a dictator. Internal strife is erupting throughout Russia as a result. The outcome, no one knows.

On October 16, 1964, Red China exploded their first nuclear device. This placed them as the world's 5th atomic power and placed them in the running of the nuclear arms race.

The 1964 Nobel Prize for medicine went to Konrad Block of Harvard University and Feodor Lynen of the University of Munich for their basic studies of cholesterol suspected of playing a role in circulatory diseases. Doctor Martin Luther King, Jr. became the 12th American and third negro to win the Nobel Peace Prize.

The worst drought of the century, ruining crops, causing forest fires, and reducing water supplies resulted from a persistent high pressure area east of the Rockies.

Where have all our coins gone? That was and still is the strange situation facing the United States. Experts maintain that the shortage is due to the hoarding of coins by collectors and due to vending machines which operate on coins. The shortage of pennies and nickels is particularly serious. The supply of dimes is normal but practically no silver dollars are circulating.

The Treasury's plan for reducing the shortage is to double the production of coins during the next several years and to keep minting coins with the 1964 date until people realize the coins are of no value. Officials say there is no need for worry about the supply of paper money. Bills are plentiful and officials say the bill supply is going to stay that way.

The war in Viet Nam continued on a full scale in 1964 with bombings of U. S. buildings and casualties reaching the thousands. As the war still rages on, no one can be sure of its outcome.

The Olympics headed the sports events in 1964. Tokyo was the site of the October International Olympics. In order that all of the world could view the event, it was shown via satellite. The United States won the most Olympic gold medals while Russia won the most silver, and bronze medals. Don Schollander was present at the Annual Sports Night at York High in January. Eighteen year old Schollander won four gold medals at the Olympics.

Australia won the Davis Cup for the twelfth time in fifteen years by defeating the United States on the tennis courts. No sooner was the World Series over than the losing New York Yankees replaced manager Yogi Berra with his opponent Johnny Keane from the winning St. Louis Cardinals. The Baltimore Colts dominated the pro-football season; whereas on college gridirons it was Notre Dame's coach Ara Parseghian and his fighting Irish.

President Johnson's administration deferred foreign policy decisions on the United Nation's debts of France and Russia, the impasse of South Viet Nam and a multilateral force for Nato until after the election.

Topping the agenda for 1964, in the 88th Congress, was the major bill of medicare for the aged under Social Security. The Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 provides for major anti-poverty programs including part-time jobs for needy college students and a nationwide job corps for high school drop-outs. Robert McNamara announced that in a sweeping cut back expected to save $477 million annually, the shut down of major military installations across the United States and abroad will occur.

After its exhaustive ten-months investigation, the Warren Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald killed President Kennedy, acted alone in the assassination, and did not know Jack Ruby. It also recommended closer cooperation between federal security agencies, a complete overhaul of the United States Secret Service, and a law making presidential assassination a federal offense.

The cheating scandal at the new Air Force Academy scandalized not only the Air Force but also the entire United States Armed Services and the nation itself. The situation began when a cadet mysteriously came into possession of a key to a locker which contained several science exams. Taking the copies he distributed them among 11 friends and formed a distribution and sale center. Sources estimated that as many as one-half of the 2,500 cadets would be interviewed before the scandal was over. Within two weeks after the entire nation was aware of the scandal, 105 cadets had already withdrawn. The extreme strictness of the academy itself, the strict house code and its apparent bending for major athletes are credited with prompting the move. The scandal involved 30 of the 53 man squad of the football team. The Air Force Academy is very touchy about the affair and refrains from giving vital information at the present.

The year 1964 brought the death of Eddie Cantor, who pioneered live comedy on radio and TV; Gracie Allen, longtime vaudeville, radio and TV favorite; Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Marxist dialectricians; Sean O'Casey, author of such books as Juno and the Paycock and The Plough and the Stars; Cole Porter, America's premier songwriter; Alvin York, one of the U. S. infantry's greatest heros; Heinrock von Brentano, founder of Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic Party. At 90 years of age, the 31st president of the U. S., Herbert Hoover, died. In his multi-faced life he won fame and honor for a career as a mining engineer that gained him some $4 million; his supervision of massive European relief projects after both World War I and World War II, and his two monumental studies of the federal bureaucracy.

On January 24, 1965 the sad but certain words were heard around the world that Sir Winston Churchill had died. Dignitaries from 111 nations, friends, and foes made arrangements to go to England to pay their last respects to the great man whose indomitable spirit led England through World War II. Churchill served as Chancellor of the Exchequer from 1924 to 1929 during which time he brought England back to the gold standard and smashed the strikes which caused England's depression. Serving in the Colonial office, he pushed final development of the tank for use in World War I. As Home Secretary, he led the police during a headline making shooting affray on Sidney Street that resulted in the killing of two dangerous anarchists. In the World Office, he served both as a soldier and as Minister of Munitions. One remembers Churchill best for the nine years he served as Prime Minister. Following the funeral procession, a launch crossed the Thames to the graveyard below Blenheim Palace where Sir Winston Churchill was buried with his ancestors.

High on the fashion plate this year are textured nylons. Stripes and diamonds of many varied colors adorn the legs of fashion-minded girls everywhere. Tiny earrings of silver, gold, and bronze are worn by girls with short French hair styles as well as by those with the long straight bobs. Wooden jewelry is really prominent among the high school girls. Penny loafers and capezios are just as popular this year as they have been for many years in the past. False hair pieces are worn by those girls trying to capture that "Victorian look". For that casual look girls as well as boys are seen wearing wrangler jeans. Low V-neck sweaters are worn over dickies of cotton and sweater material. The boys' bleached hair of the previous year is out but that long English style is still quite prominent. Topless swimsuits and evening gowns cause quite a stir among the male population.

Boys as well as girls flock to the movies to watch James Bond Thrillers and listen to the marvelous themes.

Ring the Bell, Close the

This year the senior class presented "Bell, Book, and Candle" by John Van Druten, directed by Rodney Swartz and student director Vicki Waltemyer. The play dealt with the problems and involvements of contemporary witches. The cast, all veteran performers, included Sherry Wisner in the lead as Gillian, Jim Enterline as Shep, Gail Kelly as Aunt Queenie, Terry Wolf as Nicky and Paul Smith as the famous author Sidney Redlitch. Sidney's book on the activities of present day witches caused the confusion which ended fortunately as boy got girl, Shep got Gillian, and everyone was happy.

"Bell, Book and Candle" will be long remembered as one of the foremost productions at West York.

Yearbook

Under the guiding hands of Mr. Wise, faculty director, and Linda Drawbaugh, Sally Grove, and Josie Gibson, co-editors, the 1965 yearbook staff is recording history. Long hectic nights of typing, planning, and worrying are printed between the covers of this yearbook, along with the fun, work, and excitement of the past year. A big hand for our yearbook staff in keeping our days at West York so clear in our minds.

Acrobats? No, they're West York's cheerleaders! But a great deal of acrobatic ability goes into their precision-type drills. Hard work and many practices enable the cheerleaders to lead the fans in cheering for our football team. With the cheerleaders, supported by our fans, how can our team lose!

Cheerleading doesn't end with the football season, but continues through the months of basketball and wrestling. The cheerleaders try to keep the spirit of the fans at a high pitch to let our teams know the spectators are with them all the way.

In the spring, the cheerleaders compete with other schools for top honors in contests. This is usually the concluding part of the cheerleading life at West York.

Having a victorious season, the Varsity and J.V. football teams of 1964-65 showed self-discipline, body co-ordination and sportsmanship.

Success in football can not be measured by wins or losses, but by what boys working as a team can accomplish. Because of the great amount of effort and determination of our team and coaches plus the great school spirit, this year's edition of Bulldogs have proven that all these goals can and have been accomplished to the utmost.

And we offer a very special salute and meaningful "thank-you" for a great coach we'll all miss.

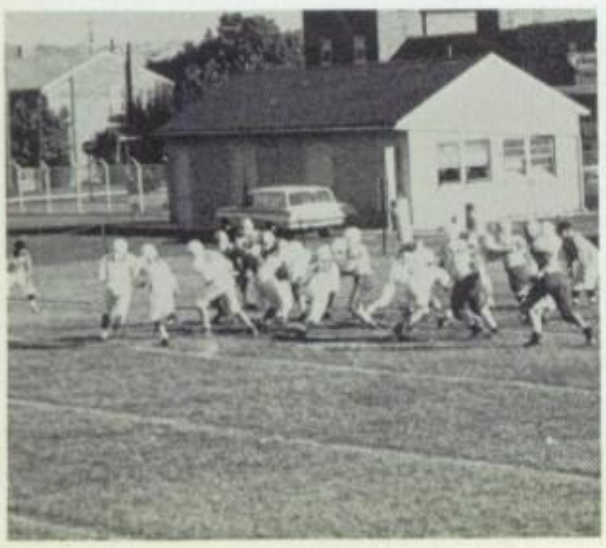
Congratulations West York "Bullpups" Thanks to the superb coaching of Mr. Harvey Jacobs and Mr. Ralph Hess West York's junior high football team rose to a top rung on the county football ladder. Nice going "Bullpups"!



Cross Country Team

The cross country team, coached by first-year mentor, Reed Prowell, finished the league season with a 3-3 log despite the tremendous efforts put forth by the ten-man squad. Paced by seniors Tom Quickel and Phil Sipling, the team dropped two successive meets to Central and Eastern before snatching their first victory from Dallastown. After losing a tough meet to Central, the team roared back to garner their last two encounters. In the last meet with Eastern, Tom Quickel set a school record of 11:55 over the home Reservoir Hill course.

Climax of the season was the YCIAA league run over the AMF course. West York captured the team championship with a 34 to 37 point upset over Central's league champions. Tom Quickel was first in 14:24, a second under the time which Karl Stroppel of Eastern set last year. Teammates Bill Sipes and Phil Sipling were third and fifth, respectively.

Five members of the squad traveled to the District 3 PIAA competition held at Reading. Tom Quickel, the first man to cross the finish line for West York, grabbed 20th place among Class A winners. The scores are as follows:

	Low Score Wins
	West York	Opponent
Central	37	20
Eastern	30	25

"I got that feeling" was the quote of Coach Cottman. This little slogan boosted the morale of the Girl's Field Hockey Team. It took the Bulldog lassies a while to get warmed up this season. With a team consisting of ten fighting seniors and about twenty underclassmen, they had a winning season of 4-3.

Our Champion Matmen

Our outstanding wrestling team, dominated by seven seniors, won the championship for the third year in a row. In addition, West York dominated the Section One Wrestling Tournament of York County, with seven champions and one runner-up. Sectional Champions for West York were Jeff Linebaugh (95), Gary Carbaugh (103), Dana Luckenbaugh (112), Darl Dennis (120), Tom DeLong (138), Chuck Bostic (180), and Gary Narber (Unlim.). Our runner up was Donald Narber at 154.

Our fine coach, Mr. John Toggas, (formerly coach of Biglarville) by his outstanding attention to the individual wrestler, earned for himself two separate showers, the modest price of a championship.

Our dual meet losses were by one and two points. In an exhibition meet, Newport, one of the toughest teams in the Blue Mountain League, edged us by two points in spite of Dana's pinning Sherm Hostler, last years state champ at 103. Our only league loss was to Southwestern, by a one point margin. West York fans will long remember the Southwestern night.

The team members like to point out that in their ten league dual meets, they scored 344 points, while holding their opponents to 113. Also, scoring 90 points, in the Sectional Tournament seems to be a new school record.

Congratulations to Mr. Toggas and all the boys. A special thanks for that unrecognized member of the team, Mr. Linebaugh, who so willingly donated many of our superb action pictures.

"Music is the Universal Tongue"

MUSIC

The West York Band began preparations for the school year's activities by attending their annual band camp, held this year at Camp Nawakwa. Any band member will assure you that the week spent at camp is an "unforgettable" experience.

What an outstanding showing the West York Marching Band made this year at football games, Penn State, and the Christmas parade in York.

Concert season began with the Christmas Concert on December 20th. The Percussion Ensemble played at Pittsburgh in the Mid-East Band Concert and held its third annual Percussion Concert in February with guest soloists Joe Morello and Dick Schory. The climax of the season was the Spring Concert. Appearing with the band were the Dixieland All-Stars. Ending the season, the band journeyed to Fairfax County, Virginia for a concert tour in May.

The West York band has numerous ensembles—the Woodwind Quintet, the Brass Sextet, and the Percussion Ensemble. The former two appeared at a seminar at Gettysburg College. The latter performed at the PMEA Convention in Harrisburg.

This year, a new record of fifteen students placed at District Band tryouts; and for the first time, one band member, Gary Hamme, appeared with the MENC Band in Buffalo, New York.

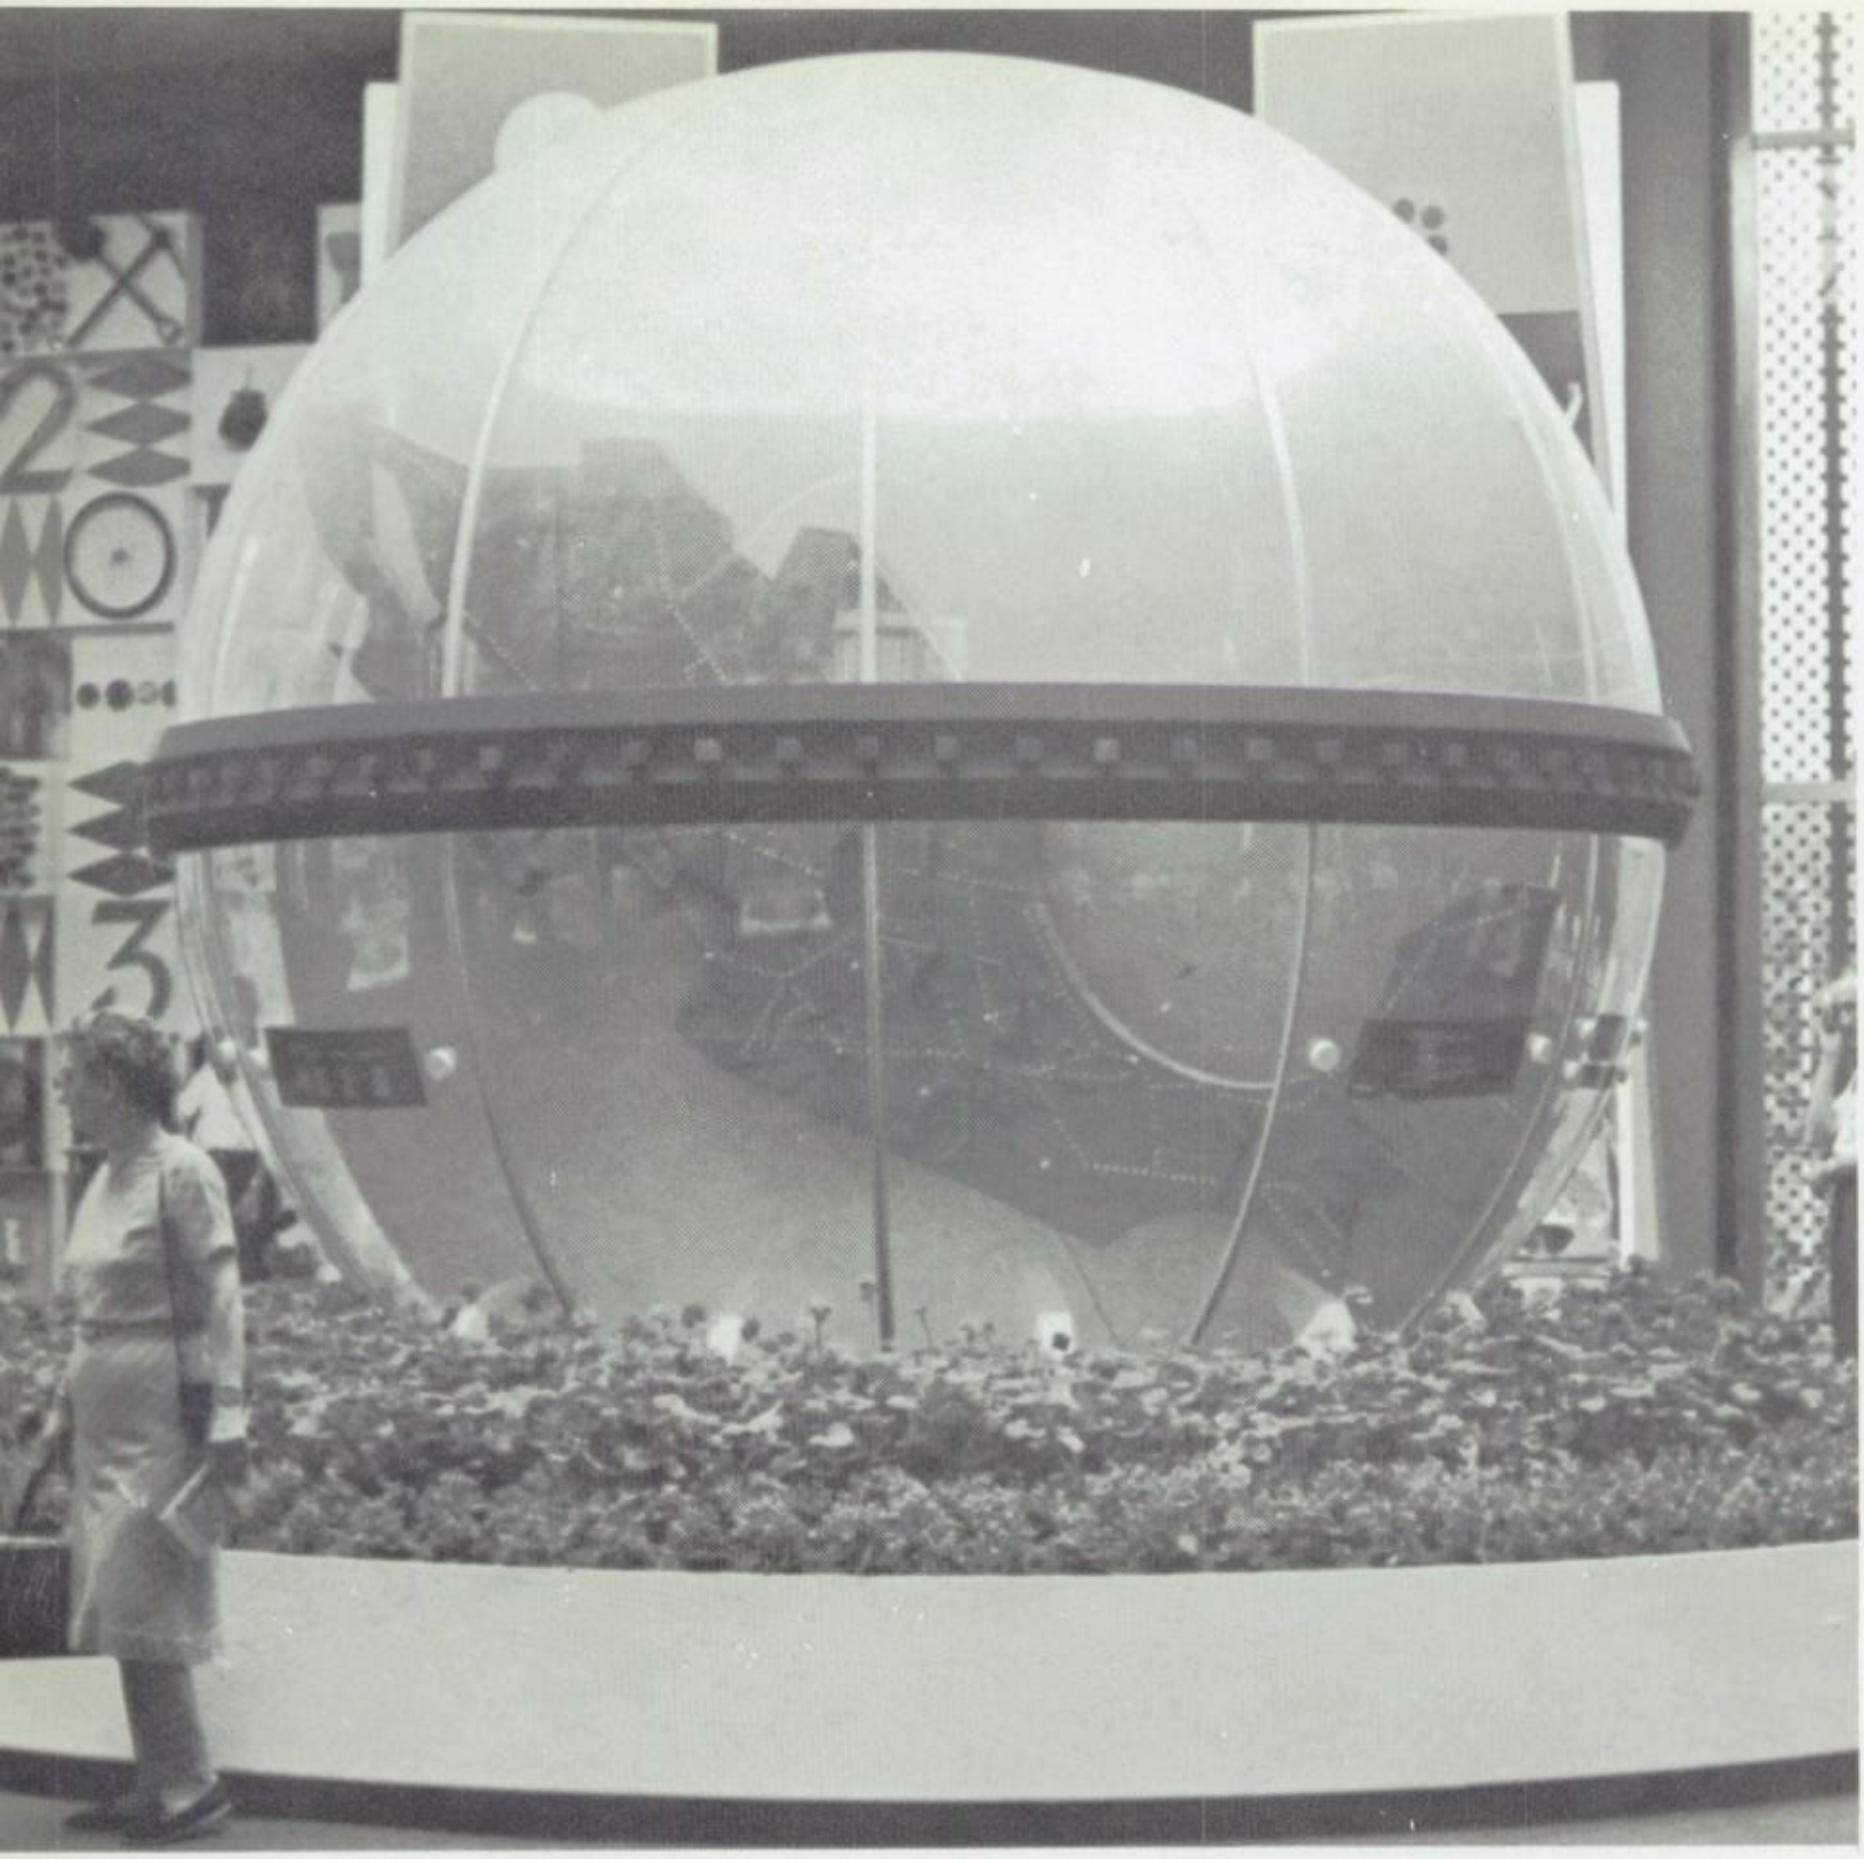
SOCIAL EVENTS



Gail Cunningham 1964 Homecoming Queen

HOMECOMING '64

Homecoming '64 began on the morning of October 23, when the homecoming candidates were introduced to the student body. They were Lynn Wood, Sally Grove, Gail Cunningham, Bonnie Altland, Sharon Kauffman, Vicki Waltemyer and Elfiteria Sitompul. After this, the final voting was conducted in the homerooms. Eagerly the students awaited the arrival of the afternoon assembly when the candidates in floorlength gowns promenaded down the aisles to appear on the stage. There, last year's queen, Jackie Doll, crowned Gail Cunningham the Homecoming Queen for 1964.

In the evening the students met at the school for a parade around West York Borough which ended in a gigantic bonfire at the athletic field.

On Saturday afternoon a parade through West York was held. At the afternoon game with Southwestern the court was presented to the crowds. The girls and their escourts had seats of honor with the retired teachers of the West York school system. Although the team put forth a valiant effort, the game ended in a 13-13 tie.

That evening the annual Homecoming Dance was held in the school cafeteria. The Sunlight Serenaders played for the Queen and her Court who made a grand entrance an hour and a half after the dance began.

Everyone will agree that Homecoming '64 was a huge success.

Ending of Our Yearbook

This has been the story of our class, the Class of 1965. As our life at West York comes to a close, we are glad we have been able to share our memories with you. It has been a good life filled with happiness and hard work.

As the Unisphere represents peace through understanding, so we hope our class will use the knowledge learned here to promote better world relation by understanding.

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to all those who have made our six years at West York a success.
